Gen. New's Big Day
Foaming Beer, Full Pocket
It Ended Happily
Sad for Burglars
—By Arthur Brisbane

Copyright, 1928, by Star Co.

WHEN POSTMASTER-GENERAL NEW wisely reduced air mail charges to five cents for a one-ounce letter, it was suggested here that advertisers help our air service and attract attention by utilizing the air mail.

On Tuesday, in Lansing, Michigan, the Reo Motor Car Company sent out ten tons of air mail advertising by the Thompson Aeronautical Corporation. On the 350,000 one-ounce letters the government collected $17,500. It took eighteen airships to carry the letters 175 miles to Chicago, whence the letters were distributed to far western points, by other airplanes.

Ordinary advertising by mail is waste. It costs five to forty times more than newspaper or magazine advertising per person reached. In addition, advertising mail matter is usually thrown into the waste basket.

But everybody opens an air mail letter, thinks about it, reads what's in it. Use air mail in your business and promote flying.

Thomas F. Healy tells Cyrus H. K. Curtis that the fight between Hoover and Smith is a fight between "the foaming beer bucket and the full dinner pail."

The beer bucket is a big issue undoubtedly, also the non-foaming hip flask. But in these days of high wages the old-fashioned "full dinner pail" has lost importance.

The full POCKETBOOK is the modern issue.

The court of Baku, Azerbaijan, if you know just where that is, supplies a plot that would have delighted Edgar Allan Poe.

A beautiful girl, very rich, was chained to the floor in a subterranean passage for four years by an uncle and cousin, who wanted her money.

The uncle goes to jail for ten years, the son for six years.

The girl will get her large fortune and marry her "penniless" lover. Things do end happily, sometimes.

Discouraging to industrious burglars is a new vault, typical of the times, built by the Chase National Bank. Three stories deep, the vault contains an elevator, stands on a piece of land worth $5,000,000, and is entirely surrounded with reinforced concrete, 12 feet thick. The bottom of this vault is 85 feet below the ground, on solid rock.

To tell how much money is in it would make the burglars TOO sad.

Women, old and you, g, are so brave it amazes you. Any woman will run into a fire and burn to save her child. Any woman will stand between a bullet and somebody that she likes.

Here comes Miss Nancy Glave, intelligent, young, good-looking, offering to jump from an airplane every day by parachute to help a charitable undertaking.

She never jumped in a parachute in her life. That makes no difference.

The Ile de France, eastbound, launched an airplane 100 miles this side of the Scilly Islands, sending important mail to Paris 15 hours ahead of the Ile de France landing.

The French have thus established a combination ship and airplane delivery for mail, saving 30 hours on the round trip.

This will be remembered if we ever have a war. One plane from Europe or Asia could drop on any city enough poison gas to kill 200,000 human beings.

NEW FLIER RADIOS: FEAR ALL FALSE

7 STOWAWAYS KILLED BY GAS FUMES AS SHIP IS BEING FUMIGATED

Baltimore, Aug. 24 (AP)—Six stowaways from South America were overcome, and seven of them killed when the steamship Rigel Inventor, from Rio de Janeiro, was fumigated at Quarantine here today, it was announced here tonight.

The fumigation was given because yellow fever is raging in the ports from which the Rigel Inventor had come.

All sailors were ordered off the boat during the fumigation, and the first intimation that there had been anybody in the hold came when officers inspecting after the fumigation was over, stumbled over the bodies where the stowaways had sought pure air.

They were taken on deck and, while efforts were made to revive them police and firehoats and rescue apparatus were rushed to the ship in response to a wireless call

JACQUELINE LOGAN IS ACCUSED OF BIGAMY

Los Angeles, Aug. 24 (AP)—An unwelcome wedding present has been offered Miss Jacqueline Logan, film actress, by the Los Angeles county district attorney's office.

Hardly had the news of her marriage in Tijuana, Lower California, to Harry Winston, Los Angeles broker, been received here when Forrest Murray, chief deputy district attorney, said the actress would face charges of bigamy if she returned here and lived with her new husband.

She obtained an interlocutory decree of divorce from Ralph Gillespie here last March, Murray said, which does not become final until March, 1929.

RAPS BAUER IN DEATH OF VICTIM OF RABIES

Report of a death from rabies in Boston was made today by Dr. George H. Bigelow, head of the State department of health.

In his report Dr. Bigelow included a criticism of Mayor Ralph S. Bauer and others, who through ridicule brought about the failure of attempted control of rabies."

The rabies victim, according to the report, was Ernest Joslin of 19 Whittier rd., Wellesley Hills.

Joslin died at the Massachusetts Homeopathic Hospital and his death was reported to the State authorities by Dr. Henry M. Pollock of that institution.

According to Dr. Bigelow's report today, a dog in the Joslin family died of dumb rabies last February.

"A week afterwards," the report said "Pasteur treatment was started on the patient. Three other members of the family received the treatment.

"The rabies virus, which was identified by Dr. Henry M. Pollock, was found to be present in the brain of the dog."

TARR BARES HUGE RUM GRAFT IN NORTH ADAMS

A gigantic graft conspiracy, alleged to involve acceptance of thousands of dollars by North Adams police and city officials for liquor protection was bared today by U. S. Dist. Atty. Tarr.

Secrecy thrown about the calling of 28 witnesses before the federal grand jury, sitting in special session in Boston, was withdrawn as Tarr openly charged police and elective officials of North Adams with taking huge sums in protection of liquor traffickers.

At the same time, the investigation was revealed as "double barreled" in that Dist. Atty. Charles H. Wright of Berkshire County and his assistant, Mark E. Couch, are aiding

STOCKS BOOM IN WILD SPECULATION WAVE

New York, Aug. 24 (AP)—Wild speculation for the advance, such as characterized the big 2,000,000 and 4,000,000 share markets last spring, broke out on the New York stock exchange today. Buying orders were poured into the market in such gigantic volume from all sections of the country that prices were whirled upward $2 to $14 a share.

Nearly two score issues, including American Smelting, National Cash Register, Chrysler, Montgomery Ward, Allied Chemical and Armour "A" touched new high prices for the year or longer.

NO HOPE FOR WETS, SAYS MRS. ROSS

Nellie Taylor Ross, vice-chairman of the Democratic National Committee and former Governor of Wyoming, does not believe there is the "remotest possibility" of the prohibition law being modified.

This statement from a leader of the party by which Governor Smith seeks election to the presidency with modification of the Volstead act a chief issue, she made in Boston today before some 1500 Democratic women whom she addressed at Hotel Statler.

The woman who was a candidate for the vice-presidential nomination on her party's ticket declared Governor Smith "towers like a colossus" among the statesmen of his generation. She praised his fearlessness, even though his view on prohibition was not exactly her own, she said.

NO CHANCE FOR CHANGE

"I will frankly confess that my official experience and wide observation have left me no illusions about the conditions attendant upon prohibition. I know they are deplorable beyond expression, and yet I am among those prohibitionists who shrink from the evidence of my eyes and ears, and among those who shrink from a drastic change that might make matters worse rather than better.

"The courage with which Governor Smith faces the conditions as they are, sets an example that we all may well emulate. It is certain that diagnosis of the trouble and the remedy challenge the wisdom of the people and their official representatives. As Governor Smith has emphasized, he can only point the way

BIG FACTORY SETS UP FORM OF "GOVERNMENT"

Thompsonville, Ct., Aug. 24 (AP)—To provide channels for constructive suggestions and means for discussion of shop problems, a works council, foremen's council and advisory board have been organized at the Bigelow-Hartford carpet plant here.

The works council will comprise approximately 45 members on a basis of one representative for each 75 employes. The foremen's council will pass on any problems brought before it by the works council, and the advisory board, composed of overseers, will adjust points of difference between the other two bodies.

MYSTERY IN MESSAGES PLACING LOST HASSELL CREW ON LONELY ISLAND

Chicago, Aug. 24 (AP)—Out of the air early today there came a wireless SOS, signed "The Rockford Fliers."

It is said the Rockford-to-Sweden plane, missing since early Sunday morning, was down on a small island off Newfoundland, and that the Fliers, Bert Hassell and Parker Cramer, were safe.

Joy born of what apparently was first definite information of the plane's fate quickly faded, however, when wireless experts began casting serious doubts as to the message's authenticity.

It seemed certain that a message purporting to come from the plane was actually broadcast, for two amateurs, one in Chicago and the other in Toledo, O., made independent reports of hearing it. On the other hand it appeared very improbable to experienced radio men that the message was sent from the plane's small set, "KHAH."

"Get word to the Associated Press and our families," said the first message received by R. J. Harris, Chicago amateur, "that we are down on a small island 50 miles off Newfoundland, and are safe."

Harris, whose station is 9-CEJ, asked the sender who had signed as "The Rockford Fliers," to stand by

New York, Aug. 24 (AP)—Eric Palmer, Jr., of Brooklyn, an amateur radio operator, reported this afternoon that he had just been in communication with a station representing itself as that of the missing plane Greater Rockford.

The message copied by Palmer read:

"Hello, old man, we are on an island about 50 miles north of Newfoundland. Our food supply is getting low. Using wind generator for power for transmission. Talked last night with 9CEJ, Chicago. Please send help. Rockford, KHAH."

Palmer began his communication with the station at 11:15 a. m., Eastern standard time, when he answered its repeated calls of "CQ, CQ, CQ," the code for calling stations when a message is to be transmitted.

Palmer said the station was working on 42.8 meters.

Two other messages were received earlier today by Brooklyn amateurs confirming the messages sent to 9CEJ.

William Redfern at 1245 a. m. reported he received this message:

"S O S we are stranded on a small island about 100 miles north of Newfoundland. We are the Rockford to Sweden fliers. Please send help."

When Worcester Roared Its Great Welcome to Youthful Olympic Stars

"HEART OF COMMONWEALTH" HONORS

Mayor Michael J. O'Hara is shown pinning a medal on Albina Osipowich, 17-year-old Worcester girl who won the 100-meter swimming championship at the Olympics. Harry Devine, who starred in the boxing tournament was likewise honored. Congressman George R. Stobbs represented the Nation.

AS PROCESSION PASSED ALONG MAIN ST.

Worcester turned out one of its largest crowds to welcome home Albina Osipowich and Harry Devine. Olympic games stars, and it was estimated 150,000 paid tribute to the boy and girl who carried the colors of America so well in the Amsterdam contests. This photo shows the procession passing in review before Mayor Michael J. O'Hara at Worcester Hall. It was one of the greatest welcomes ever extended by "Heart of the Commonwealth." The last time that the city went wild over a native was when Ned Ten Eyck returned home after winning the English Diamond Sculls 31 years ago.

Miss Osipowich was all smiles as she arrived home from Amsterdam in the white uniform of the Olympic girl, with red, white and blue shield, white turban hat and white slippers and stockings.

for his planes while he communicated the message to the Associated Press. Then they returned to the set and were rewarded receiving the following:

"We all feel chilled us and we landed on a small island. We are O. K. and safe. Need food. Using a generator for power for communication. Our position is on a small island about 50 miles off Newfoundland."

After receiving this, Harris said he asked the sender to set a later hour during which communication might be resumed. The reply was:

"We are very tired and need sleep badly, we must have a schedule to work. Will call you tomorrow night 9 p. m. central standard time or 11 p. m. eastern standard time. Please send word to our families. Best regards to all. (Signed) The Rockford Flyers."

Harris said when he first heard the signals they were "swinging" badly, a condition he understood with "making sound a familiar to radio set operators listening to distant stations. Very soon, however, the signals became clear and reception thereafter was entirely satisfactory, he said.

It was 12:45 a. m., Chicago daylight saving time, that Harris reported hearing the signals from "KHAH."

Harold E. Williams, a Toledo, O., radio amateur, who said he also was in communication with the Greater Rockford plane at that time at 11:30 p. m. by radio in the amateur wavelength band, approximately two hours earlier than the Chicago message.

Paul Segall, it was the plane's pilot, had been trying all evening to get in touch with someone. Williams said he first heard it, it was calling a C. Q. D., a call which might have been mistaken for Hawaii or Japan.

Among the several amateurs and others who monitored that message, besides Harris, the Greater Rockford's set was W. H. Hoffman, chief operator of the Burgess Battery Company, and Williams reported. The plane's equipment, Hoffman said, was so constructed that it would not send on wave length more than six points removed from 82.4, the wave assigned it.

Dan Mix, another operator of the Burgess Company, pointed out as did several persons in Rockford, Ill., home of the fliers, that neither Hassell nor Cramer was sufficiently skilled in wireless operation to have sent a similar message.

Greenland Sees Hope If Fliers Landed on Island

Copenhagen, Denmark, Aug. 24 (AP)—Authoritative reports from South Greenland yesterday that Bert Hassell and Parker Cramer were sighted Sunday morning over the village of Fiskenaesset have stirred the utmost optimism among Greenland experts that the American airmen will be found safe.

Daugaard Jensen, director of Greenland trade, told the Associated Press today that a northwest storm undoubtedly had forced the Greater Rockford 200 miles south of Stromfjord, which is near Mt. Evans, the goal of the fliers on their 1600-mile hop from Cochrane, Ontario.

He expressed the opinion that Hassell must have had great difficulty in find a landing place, but that he probably found one south of the sand plain near Frederikshaab, which is about 60 miles from Fiskenaesset.

The nearest gasoline supply is at Sondre Stromfjord and it would take several weeks to transport it, while the chances of a successful takeoff are considered poor.

Jail and Fine for All Who Send Fake S.O.S. Radio Calls

Washington, Aug. 24 (AP)—Should the new signals purporting to come from the Hassell plane Greater Rockford prove to be a hoax the perpetrator may face a heavy penalty if he should be detected.

The law provides a $2500 fine and imprisonment for not more than five years or both for each sending out of false distress signals. The problem is to trace such calls, which, unless repeated, proves difficult.

It is not unusual for pranic-loving amateurs to use false call letters, it was said, but this is seldom done with mischievous intent.

NEW 'RADIOS' HEARD FROM LOST FLIERS

This message was unsigned, but one taken down by H. A. Jansen at 9 a. m., signed Khah, read:

"We are stranded on a small island north of Newfoundland. Please send help. Our ship was lost 30 miles north of Newfoundland. Please hurry. Our oil feed failed us and we had to land on a small island where we are O. K. and safe. But our food supply is getting low and we are using a generator for transmitter. We are the Rockford-Sweden fliers and want help. The only way you can get help to us is by ship.

KHAH."

This message and the only to Palmer give the same location for the island.

Radio Maker Says Hassell Couldn't Change to '42. Wave'

Madison, Wis., Aug. 24 (INS)—W. H. Hoffman, chief radio operator of the Burgess Battery Company, here today stated it would be impossible for Parker Cramer or Bert Hassell, crew of the missing plane Greater Rockford, to change their radio apparatus to aw ave-length of 42.8 meters.

Hoffman constructed the apparatus for the plane. Its skid, too, was the power for the set was furnished by a battery and that it would be impossible to send to Chicago or Toledo from the wilds of Canada or Greenland.

St. John's, N. F., Aug. 24 (AP)—Colonial Secretary Sullivan today instructed wireless operators at Bell Island, Baitle Harbor and Indian Harbor to keep close watch day and night for radio signals from the plane Greater Rockford, which is missing with its crew, Bert Hassell and Parker Cramer.

Captain Windsor, former minister of fisheries, said "the only islands off northern Newfoundland that are uninhabited are Funks Islands. Men could live there for some days as the islands are breeding places for sea birds. All other islands are inhabited and the fliers would be reported before this."

bers of the family came in contact with the dog, although there was no history of a bite."

Affirming that during the last year there have been more cases of rabies in the eastern part of Massachusetts than ever before, the report said:

"It is to be hoped that the mayor of Lynn and others who through ridicule brought about his failure of attempted control of rabies, are satisfied with their accomplishments."

A short time after Dr. Bigelow's report was made public, it became known that a collie dog that bit five persons in Revere last Monday had died of rabies while under observation by officials of the Animal Rescue League. Pasteur treatment was begun immediately on the five persons bitten.

WHITING GIVEN GLAD HAND BY EMPLOYES

By BERT FORD.

Holyoke, Aug. 24—William F. Whiting, new U. S. Secretary of Commerce, succeeding Herbert Hoover in the Coolidge cabinet, was "glad-handed" today on his return to his paper mill by his employees, many of them relatives.

As early as he was at his desk, six three sons were there before him, at 8 a. m., and Secretary Whiting smiled broadly when this was mentioned to him, disclosing that when he leaves for Washington he is turning over active management of the plant entirely to them.

There were tears in the eyes of at least one veteran employe. Mortimer Murphy, an engineer, when he gripped his employer's hand to congratulate him on his appointment to his first public office.

LIKE ONE BIG FAMILY

Events of the "welcome home" that was accorded Whiting by his workers showed that the plant is pervaded with the family feeling. Commenting on this, Secretary Whiting said he had great confidence in those he employs, men and women alike.

That fame and farming do not mix was indicated late in the day when Myron Hunt, who has charge of the big Whiting stock farm on the outskirts of the city, told of scores of would-be picture takers bothering him since his boss was honored by the President.

"Be nice to them, but if there are too many and they insist on taking cattle pictures, you might let them try their luck on the bull," was Whiting's advice to Hunt, according to the latter.

Seated in his office at the mill, the new Secretary of Commerce pointed with pride to a photograph of the first exhibit of American paper products on foreign soil, set up by his father in the Paris explosion of 1878.

"It was awarded first prize," he said. "Prior to that much paper was imported in this country, but afterward the market turned and American paper products were given proper recognition.

RETIRING MANNER

Sharing with S. Joseph Skinner, silk manufacturers, the distinction of being wealthiest man in Holyoke never brought Secretary Whiting the public notice that is now his and under the spotlight, although genial and good-natured, he showed his native reserve by refusing to allow photographing of his wife or grandchildren and refusing to let his son give out pictures of himself in his college days.

Mrs. Whiting, whose romance with her husband is known to every old resident of the city, is spending much of her time with her mother, who is ill at the Chapin mansion, which is across the street from the Whiting residence.

There is considerable local pride in the appointment of the new cabinet member and there is no doubt among those who know him that he will "make good." That Holyoke, Massachusetts and New England will have another spokesman in an important position in the government, is a much-mentioned fact.

PAY OLYMPIC STARS HONORS IN WORCESTER

Worcester, Aug. 24—Worcester went wild in a wonderful welcome home to Miss Albina Osipowich, 17-year-old high school girl, as 150,000 persons enshrined in the "Heart of the Commonwealth" the unassuming miss that carried the colors of the United States to victory in the recent Olympic games by winning the 100-meter swim.

Sharing honors was Harry Devine, 17-year-old Worcester amateur pugilist, who was her team mate with the United States athletes that competed with the best in the world.

Not since more than three decades ago when the Worcestertes turned out to a woman and a man to honor Ned Ten Eyck, who returned after winning the English diamond sculls which amounted to the single sculls rowing championship of the world, has the city seen such tribute paid for prowess in athletics.

The two 17-year-old athletes captivated a city that was proud of their contribution to the United States Olympic team and showed it.

When the train bearing the home coming athletic warriors pulled into Union Station thousands were on hand to greet them.

Each laden with a basket of flowers, girls friends of the Worcester Boy Club Auxiliary, the club which Miss Osipowich can credit with her knowledge of swimming, and where Young Devine learned all he knows about boxing, awaited them.

In the spacious square before the Union Station all of Worcester that could pack into the allotted locality opened throats in wild cheers, while auto sirens, horns, Factory whistles and everything else blended in a noise that will seldom be duplicated.

Through the streets of the home city, lined five deep with friends, Albina Osipowich and Harry Devine sitting "a la Lindbergh," received the honors of the city, the triumphal procession marched.

In the rear of City Hall, on the spacious lawn, the largest gathering along the whole route congregated. Here Mayor Michael J. O'Hara, bespeaking the sentiment of the city presented the girl and boy with medals as a tribute of the affection of their fellow citizens.

Conspiracy to protect bootleggers, still-operators and traffickers is charged against prominent North Adams men in the evidence being given the jury. HE'LL RATTLE SOME FAMILY SKELETONS

Newburyport, Aug. 24—The clo and clatter of dusty bones, comp ing long-hidden skeletons of "be families," will resound next week, was promised today by Mayor "Bo sy" Gillis during a hiatus in his g station war.

"Bossy" made his promise in at nouncing that his "expose new paper," which in reality will be a pamphlet, will not be on sale unti after the City Council meeting o Monday.

At that meeting the chunky, red headed mayor expects to have sane tioned his demand for a permit to operate the new and controversia gas station.

"The longer this paper stays on the fire, the hotter she'll be," asserted "Bossy." "Boy, when that paper comes out it'll be smoking, and what I'm not making is a wild guess."

"I'm writing every line in it my self! Me—Editor Gillis!

"I'll show up this gang of high brows. There's a lot of secret stuff locked up in this town that won't be secret after the Morning Gillis comes out.

"All these guys that have been posing as angels with sweet ped grees ain't gonna feel so good when they read my stuff, but it'll all be the truth.

"And I'm going to tell the story of how Mrs. Foss got her permit to carry a gun."

Gillis was at the disputed gas station today, watching his half-dozen hired men turn the cranks of the pumps.

There was a bit more quiet than usual, however, and the shouts of passing motorists were not answered by the attendants, as has been the case previously.

CHARLES BASIN GIFT DENIED BY HARRIMAN

While Governor Fuller today issued a statement praising a $1,000,000 contribution from Mrs. James J. Storrow for development of the Charles River basin, Henry I. Harriman, chairman of the special commission studying plans for beautifying the basin, denied that the contribution or offer of it had been made.

"Mrs. Storrow some months ago submitted tentative plans to the Metropolitan District Commission providing for the erection of a boat house on the Lower Charles as a memorial to her husband," Harriman said. "The plans were entirely tentative and were never formally approved so far as this commission knows, either by Mrs. Storrow or the Metropolitan District Commission.

"Beyond expressing a desire to cooperate with the commission, Mrs. Storrow has made no definite offer. The commission regrets that any publicity was given either to Mrs. Storrow's plans or its own plans until both were further matured."

Almost simultaneously, Governor Fuller issued the following statement from his Rye, N. H., summer home:

"Mrs. Storrow's gift of $1,000,000 for development of the Charles River basin will provide a fitting memorial to her husband, the late James J. Storrow, an illustrious son of Massachusetts. Furthermore the donation will help immensely in the effort now being made to utilize the basin for enjoyment of the people of Boston.

"Great basins of water like that which we have in the Charles River have been utilized in Germany notably at Alster Basin, and other foreign countries, so they are both beautiful and enjoyable.

ECSTASY GLIDE THE NEW DANCE

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 24 (AP)—The "ecstacy glide" is slow fox trot rhythm in the approved dance of the 1928-29 season so far as the dancing masters of America are concerned.

The masters placed their approval on the new dance after witnessing no less than a dozen offerings of varying steps, slides, cuts and stomps.

"Ecstacy glide" is the creation of Thomas Sheehy, of Chicago, who demonstrated it with Miss Lucille Stoddart of Milwaukee. It presents a combination of slides, two steps and schottische steps. The dancing masters gave it 112 votes as against 77 for "a campus drag" offered by Mrs. Walter Keenan of Philadelphia.

New Cottage Farm Bridge Will Be Open Monday

The new Cottage Farm bridge will be opened for all traffic next Monday, it was announced definitely today at the office of the Metropolitan District Commission.

Only a few minor finishing touches remain to be executed before the span across the Charles river is ready for use.

DENIES STATE IS DEEP IN DEBT

Charles P. Howard, chairman of the State commission on administration and finance, today took issue with the published statement of the Bank of America that the gross bonded debt of Massachusetts is $127,264,412.

"While it is possible to work out such a figure, the conclusions drawn in the article issued by the bank are very misleading and surprisingly unintelligent for a bank of standing," Howard said.

He contends the only proper figure to which to judge the State debt is the net direct, which, he says, was on v $14,455,704.58 on November 30 1927, and at the end of the next fiscal year will be lowered to approximately $12,850,000.

"The bank's figures show gross debt instead of net debt," he said "The difference between the figures for gross and net debt are made up of the amounts in the sinking fund. The figure of the bank includes not only the gross direct debt but also the gross contingent debt."

He referred to financial statistics put out by the United States Department of Commerce in which it was shown the contingent debt of Massachusetts "represents the indebtedness of the State contracted for the most part in the interests of certain cities and towns in the metropolitan district from which the State exacts payments for interest and sinking fund accumulations."

CALLES GIRL TO BE PROTESTANT

Mexico City, Aug. 24 (AP)—The first American grandchild of President Plutarco Elias Calles will be christened by an Episcopal minister tomorrow in the presence of Calles and members of the cabinet.

The christening will take place at the home of Thomas Arnold Robinson of New York, who married the President's daughter, Ernestina.

The baby, a girl, will be named Tinina Calles Robinson. Dean E. W. Golden Hookes of the Episcopal Christ Church of Mexico, will officiate. Mrs. Percy F. Eames of New York will be godmother, and Henry L. Doherty of New York grandfather. Neither will be present, Mrs. Eames will be represented by Senorita Alicia Calles, sister of Mrs. Robinson, and Doherty by H. Lee Eames of New York.

El Universal Grafico says that President Calles' determination not to continue in office after expiration of his term November 30, has been made known semi-officially to Jose Manuel Puig Casaurano, secretary of industry, commerce and labor.

DRIFT TO AL SEEN IN 2 STATES

By CHARLES N. WHEELER
Noted Political Analyst

Chicago, Aug. 24—The Tammany farmer may encounter tough sledding in trying to convince the dirt farmers of the Middle West that watermelons grow on pea vines. But they certainly are "slickers" when it comes to herding the voters in the big cities.

Computations based on Wednesday morning's totals in the nation-wide straw vote gathered by the Hearst publications from coast to coast place Governor Smith's stock on a new high level.

This is so striking that, for the first time, two of the most important of all the States—New York and Wisconsin—indicate a drift to Smith.

That is, the votes of the cities, with some exceptions, in both Commonwealths is running so strongly to the governor that there does not appear at this time a corresponding counter drift to Hoover in the strictly rural communities.

BIG RURAL VOTE

While in other States, notably west of the Alleghanies, the Hoover rural vote is swamping the governor, and this is true of the small towns as well as the farm territory adjoining, Smith is making an out-State showing in both New York and Wisconsin that should be of least disconcerting to the Republican generals.

The better informed of the G. O. P. chiefs recognize the seriousness for the moment of the situation in both Commonwealths, but are banking on both a checking of the Smith vote and a definite shunting of the tide to Hoover when the campaign begins hitting on all six cylinders.

In view of the present indications in the straw vote that Smith is going to pile up a tremendous vote in Greater New York, the upstate returns cannot be construed as comforting to the Hoover generals.

Unless the more complete poll in the next few weeks show a greater swing of upstate New York to Hoover, the Wall Streeters probably will be justified in shaving the present odds of 2 to 1 that Hoover will carry the State.

NEW VOTE EXPECTED

Information from the insiders in New York city is that the Smith generals are looking for the largest new vote ever recorded in a presidential campaign in the State, and that the bulk of it will be registered in New York city.

The total vote of New York State four years ago was, in round numbers, 3,264,000.

Some of the prognosticators, among them being Senator Copeland, estimate an increase of at least 1,500,000, and possibly closer to 2,000,000, which would bring the total up to around 5,000,000.

The greater part of the new vote, the Democratic experts state, which will be pulled largely noted in Greater New York, will be in the Smith camp.

From this assumption, they contend that, unless Hoover sweeps the upstate territory with a tremendous vote, the Empire State is headed for the Tammany camp.

In any event, the news from New York State from now on will be of the greatest interest to the whole country.

Filene's Automatic Bargain BASEMENT

LOW PRICED at $100 at $1

A crowd waits at the bargain door—the bell sounds and all is in readiness—the door swings open and hundreds of women rush to the dress section—there's a sale of dresses at $1.

Next morning another crowd—this time they are waiting for women's sample coats advertised from $65—$85—$100—up to $245 and they are unusual bargains—Filene Basement bargains!

And in the crowds that come here you will see well-dressed women—shawl covered women—women of wealth—mothers of families—working girls—college girls—the woman who runs a neighborhood shop at the corner and some of the girls from the leading musical comedy in town—all seeking bargains!

Bargains for which only Filene's Basement is famous—bargains that have made this a different kind of a basement store—bargains that have helped thousands of women of modest means or economical habits to dress well.

For while it is customary for basement stores to sell only the cheapest lines of merchandise and not necessarily bargains—Filene's Basement sells goods ranging from the very lowest in price up through the medium and very highest-priced lines—providing, of course, each lot represents a saving from its normal value.

At frequent intervals you will find Filene's Basement selling shoes for all the family at $1—from time to time we buy the surplus stocks of exclusive Fifth Avenue, N. Y., and Boylston Street, Boston, specialty shops—you will find such famous brands as Gotham Gold Stripe hosiery and Commonwealth shoes—one day thousands of men's suits at $11 and then again women's distinctive imported evening gowns from France at $29.75, etc., etc.

At opposite ends of the price scale or anywhere in between—all lots in this different store are alike in principle—they are low priced at any price.

If we fail to make the first price low enough the automatic plan forces the price down,

25% after 12 selling days;
50% after 18 selling days;
75% after 24 selling days;

and goods unsold after 30 selling days given away to charitable institutions.

E. BOSTON MAN FIRED ON BY AUTO BANDIT

East Boston police today were investigating a mysterious attempt to assassinate Leo Toozzilleno, 40, of Sumner st., who narrowly escaped death when a shot was fired at him by an unidentified man driving a stolen automobile.

Toozzilleno told the police he was on his way to work, when at the corner of Chaucer and Pope sts. a large automobile drew up to the curb. The driver, leaving the engine running, leaped to the street, produced a revolver and fired a shot that grazed Toozzilleno's head. The would-be slayer then took to his heels, abandoning the automobile, which was seized by the police.

A short time later the car was reported as having been stolen in Chelsea. Five minutes before the shooting it was in collision at Princeton and Shelby sts., East Boston with a machine operated by Nicholas O'Laughlin of Brighton. O'Laughlin told the police both drivers stopped and the operator of the stolen car said he would settle the slight damage to O'Laughlin's car by paying $3.

Toozzilleno was unable to give any reason for the attack on him, declaring he had no enemies so far as he knew.

FROTHINGHAM BODY HOME

The body of Congressman Louis A. Frothingham arrived in North Easton today by train from Boston. It had been brought from North Haven, Me., where Frothingham died yesterday aboard his yacht.

Completion of funeral arrangements will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock in Unity Church here.

Messages of condolences, expressions of sympathy and tributes continued to come to the Frothingham home today from prominent men throughout New England and other parts of the country.

BUFFALO DRY HEAD WANTS DISTILLERY DESTROYED

Buffalo, Aug. 24 (INS)—Andrew McCampbell, prohibition administrator, announced today he would make a request to federal authorities that the property of the Waterloo Distilling Corporation of Waterloo, N. Y., seized by the prohibition department, be libeled and destroyed. The plant and equipment is valued at more than $500,000. In addition, 314,000 gallons of pure grain alcohol were confiscated.

The action followed the conviction of the Waterloo company, four other corporations and five individuals in a conspiracy to violate the prohibition law.

BIDDEFORD'S SUSPENDED CHIEF GIVEN HEARING

Biddeford, Me., Aug. 24 (AP)—After a six-hour hearing the police commissioners early today reserved decision in the case of Chief Ernest H. Robbins, suspended two months ago. One charge was that when various transatlantic fliers were at Old Orchard the chief went for airplane rides while supposedly on duty.

TRY THIS WHEN YOU'RE 80! HECKSCHER CAN DO IT!

New York, Aug. 24 (AP)—Thomas A. Edison once informed August Heckscher, philanthropist, that no man was physically fit unless he could pass either leg over the back of a high chair. Mr. Heckscher, who will be 80 years old next Sunday, can do it. He says he feels better than he did at 60.

TWO UNUSUAL MISHAPS CAUSED GIRL'S DEATH

Camden, N. J., Aug. 24 (AP)—Tragedy loomed as the result of an explosion in her Collingswood, N. J., home, Margaret Kelly, 18, died today.

Miss Kelly was using cleaning fluid, which ignited from the heat of an electric iron, setting her dress afire. A passing motorist helped her smother the flames.

He placed her in his car, together with her mother, and while rushing to the hospital the wind fanned the girl's smouldering dress into flames. The mother extinguished the blaze.

PUBLIC OWNERSHIP OF L, HIS PLATFORM

Bernard Glasburg, candidate for re-election for second term for Representative from Ward 14, is advocating the public ownership of the Boston Elevated R. R. as the only means of bettering the service as well as for the reduction of the present 7c fare.

He is a graduate of the Boston English high school, and Boston University law school, with the degrees of L. L. B. and L. L. M.

Mr. Glasburg, while a member of the Legislature, successfully brought about the passage of the so-called Dunders Joiner law and the law regulating fake auction sales.

He is an ex-service man, married, a Knight of Pythias, Odd Fellow, Elk, and a former Boston newsboy, who worked his way through school and college.

HOOVER AGREES TO SPEAK IN BOSTON

En route to Washington, with Hoover, Aug. 24 (INS)—Parting with the wildwest, satisfied the grain belt will go Republican in November, Herbert Hoover was speeding to wind Washington today to take personal command of his campaign on the wet Atlantic seaboard.

The Republican nominee will take on this task, convinced his hardest fight must be fought in the states from Massachusetts to Maryland. He has agreed with his advisors the candidacy of Governor Alfred E. Smith, his Democratic rival, will have its greatest appeal in these states, due to the prohibition issue.

He has agreed tentatively to speak in Boston and New York later on in the campaign. In addition, he probably will visit Chicago and the border states. Other addresses will be made from Washington over the radio and he will take another transcontinental trip when he returns to California to vote.

Hoover has determined to make a fight for each state in the east. He was said to believe the Republicans could win the Atlantic seaboard, despite its apparent opposition to prohibition, if these states were properly organized. His plan will be to force the Republican issue of prosperity, efficient administration and governmental economy to the fore.

Hoover came east with one fly in the midwest ointment. It was the prospect of a strike on all railroads west of the Mississippi. Such a strike, it was feared, might be made a political football and used to destroy all the Republicans gain scored by Hoover on his tireding trip in the west.

Hoover's advisers believed he had definitely halted the farm revolt. The Hoover farm relief program, it was felt, would win back to the party the thousands of farmers who threatened to bolt because of the defeat of the McNary-Haugen bill.

Washington Will Stage Hoover Homecoming

Washington, Aug. 24 (AP)—Friends of Herbert Hoover will stage a big homecoming show tonight when the nominee returns to Washington.

The celebration will be the result of a feeling "that he belongs as much to Washington as to Palo Alto and West Branch."

Delegations of patriotic and civic organizations will greet the party nominee when his train pulls in. The reception is being sponsored by the local Hoover and Curtis club.

Chairman Work of the National committee, will head a group of officials of the body at the station, including Secretary Fort, and Assistant Secretary Culberson. Edward F. Colladay, National committeeman for the District of Columbia, and Mrs. Virginia White speed, National committeewoman, will lead the executive committee of the local party organization.

SMITH TO CUT OUT OPEN AIR CAMPAIGNING

New York, Aug. 24 (AP)—There will be no open air campaigning for Governor Smith, if he can help it. The radio has too much appeal for him. Personally he is known to have felt for some time the futility of conducting an extensive outdoor speech-making tour when such modern means as the radio, with its voice-saving qualities, is available.

Whether the Democratic presidential nominee adheres strictly to an indoor speaking program, of course, depends upon the availability of broadcasting facilities, but it is certain, his friends emphasize, that the campaign now under way will see no counterpart of the old stumping days of Bryan and Roosevelt and others who, at times, made as many as 20 or 25 speeches a day to local audiences.

In covering his itinerary, about the country, and there is growing evidence that it will be a real swing Gov. Smith of course, will appear on the rear platform of his train at intervals, shake hands, and probably say a few words, but wherever a radio hookup can be obtained which will cover the territory he thinks should be covered, it is generally believed among those close to him he will take advantage of that method.

He turned thumbs down on an invitation to make a speech to the great outdoor crowd that is expected to turn out for Democratic rally at Sesqui, N. J. Saturday night.

This rally, held yearly at the "Governor's Day" exercises, Smith probably will attend, but he will make no speech. The rally also will be attended by Gov. Moore of New Jersey, and Gov. Ritchie of Maryland.

Smith Plan "Cesspool of Iniquity"—Borah

Boise, Ida., Aug. 24 (AP)—Senator William E. Borah of Idaho said today every State line in the United States would become a Canadian border with no way to prevent State traffic across lines, under the State option system advocated by Gov. Smith in his acceptance speech.

The senator said the Canadian situation was one where liquor is plentiful, corruption is flagrant and bootlegging is universal.

Referring to public ownership, management and control of the liquor traffic, Borah said:

"Facts are overwhelming and at hand to show that instead of creating respect for law this system increases lawlessness. Instead of controlling liquor traffic it gives infinitely better opportunity for unlawful traffic of liquor."

Bureaucratic government engaged in manufacture, sale and distribution of liquor would be a cesspool of iniquity and corruption. It would be bureaucracy and bureaucracy drunk."

Boy Scouts to Ride Coolidge Guest Pony 1600 Miles

Superior, Wis., Aug. 24 (AP)—Boy Scouts may ride a five-year-old mare in relays, 1600 miles from here to Gallup, N. M.

Molly, the mare that brought Boyd Jones, 14, from Gallup in a 69-day trip to see President Coolidge, faced a wandering journey along when Jones said she wasn't worth $160, the price of shipping. Jones is starting for home today by auto.

Scouts of Superior offered to ride the pony in relays, meeting other Scouts along the route, to safeguard Molly's trip home.

If the Scout plans fail, Radio Station WEBC will broadcast an appeal for the amount necessary to send the pony home on the train.

SMITH OUT FOR RUM INTERESTS —VOLSTEAD

St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 23 (AP)—Governor Alfred E. Smith's advocacy of modification of the dry laws in his acceptance speech was criticised here by Andrew Volstead, author of the prohibition enforcement law.

Mr. Volstead said the Democratic presidential candidate avoided his party's issues in dealing with the liquor situation and said the Governor purposely seeks to become the candidate of the "liquor interests."

In his statement, Mr. Volstead said:

"The promise of Mr. Smith to enforce the prohibition law and the 18th amendment is no more sacred than the oath he took to enforce the 18th amendment when he became Governor of New York.

"He approved the bill to repeal the liquor laws of New York for the enforcement of that amendment and has, so far as I am aware, never recommended any other law to the New York Legislature for its enforcement."

that to him seems wise. It rests with the people to say whether he is right or wrong.

"So far as I am concerned, considering the complicated process necessary to change the amendment, I do not think that there is the remotest possibility of its being touched, and I think that if today there could be a popular vote on it, the people would not vote as they drink.

"I implicitly trust Governor Smith to employ all his authority and the faculties of a resourceful mind to enforce the laws as they are, and the ultimate good sense of the American people to determine its final solution.

"I am unable to understand how any person who is sincerely at heart a prohibitionist can find justification to their consciences in supporting a candidate who has clothed his own position in ambiguous words, and who in dry territory is represented by his party leaders as the paragon o fall the prohibitions, and in wet territory as no more dry than Governor Smith."

"While prohibition is an important problem, it is only one of the important problems before the nation. I want to see Democratic principles brought to bear on the farmers' problem, and upon the control of water power.

"No real progress toward permanent peace can be made except under liberal government. Last, but by no means last, I wish to see the restoration of honesty in government and efficient service in behalf of all the people and not of a favored group.

"The presidential election is up to the women of the country. They are the deciding factor. The question is: Will they condone the corruption of the past eight years, are they going to stamp their seal of approval upon it or are they going to hold the Republican party responsible at the polls?"

WARNER ACTS TO END AUTO FRAUD

State House on Monday, and all acquiesced.

These men are Insurance Commissioner Wesley E. Monk, whose announcement of huge increases in compulsory insurance rates precipitated the official scrutiny of the entire insurance situation; George R. Nutter, president of the Massachusetts Bar Association, which has already begun to move toward the disbarment of crooked lawyers; Dr. Horace D. Arnold, acting head of the state board of registration in medicine, and W. J. Constable, representing the Massachusetts Automobile Rating and Accident Prevention Bureau, an association maintained by the insurance companies for the purpose of supplying statistics to the Massachusetts insurance commissioner.

INSPECTS DOCUMENTS.

Atty.-Gen. Warner's inspection of documents relating to insurance frauds was in the presence of Capt. George A. Parker, motor vehicle registrar.

Those records were gathered under the direction of Frank A. Goodwin during the last weeks of his term as registrar and are part of the files of the registry. Capt. Parker took them to the State House to submit to Warner at the latter's request.

Admissions of guilt on the part of some attorneys, and damaging statements against both lawyers and doctors by automobile owners, are said to be contained in these documents, as well as stenographic transcripts of replies made by suspected individuals under direct questioning by Goodwin.

The conference between Warner and Capt. Parker lasted 45 minutes, and when it ended, after the registrar left the State House, declining to comment, the attorney-general made his announcement that he believed action by him was warranted.

Although promised special financial aid by the Governor, Warner is known to be opposed to the practice indulged in by some of his predecessors of hiring outside help in such investigations, and he indicated today that he would appoint one of his present assistants to conduct the inquiry.

The purpose of the conference on Monday is to get everybody working together instead of conducting separate investigations, the attorney-general said.

Governor and insurance commissioner are now diametrically opposed on the rate problem, Commissioner Monk insisting the rates be announced tentatively this week must stand, while Governor Fuller believes a 25 per cent. cut possible.

Underlying this difference of view is a divergent interpretation of the law, Monk believing that he must take the statistics of the insurance companies, while the governor takes the stand the commissioner has the legal right to use his own judgment in accepting those figures.

A battle over this question in the Supreme Court is likely for, should Commissioner Monk definitely put the new rates into effect by an announcement prior to Sept. 1, as the law specifies, several communities will hit hardest under the revised schedules intend to take advantage of their right to petition the higher court in the state for a review.

FATAL BUS CRASH DRIVER LOST LICENSE IN MAY

Worcester, Aug. 24 (AP)—Wesley H. Carter, 29, of Pepperell, former resident of Warren, driver of the New York-Boston bus, who disappeared yesterday following an accident in this city in which the bus skidded, causing the death of Harry Goodman, a Boston business man, lost his driving license last May when he was found guilty of operating while under the influence of liquor. Carter is still missing.

AUTO DRIVER, 80, OBJECTS TO ADVICE FROM HIS WIFE

Although he is 80, John P. Harris of Montgomery st., North Cambridge, is satisfied he has sufficient pep to operate an automobile. His wife Annie, 52 years of age, thinks differently. When Harris was engaged in taking lessons in operating his wife protested and argued with him. He slapped her in the face, according to the evidence in East Cambridge district court today.

He was found guilty on a charge of assault and battery, but because of his advanced age Judge Edward A. Counihan placed the case on file.

Freckles Sees Lot of Fun in Movies

By PAUL R. (BUCK) MILLER.

When I went into the Boston American's "Our Gang" contest, I did not expect to win at all and I was quite surprised when they told me that I had won as Freckles.

There was a boy who kept up with me until the last, and I thought sure that he was going to win. I am very happy that I won the contest, because I would like to go to Hollywood and be a real movie actor.

As a matter of fact I HAVE BEEN a real movie actor for three days this week, at Norumbega Park, where a local "Our Gang" picture was filmed. The "Our Gang" editor of the Boston American has asked me how it feels to be a movie actor. So here goes:

I felt quite proud to act in front of all those people. We had plenty of fun in the pie-throwing contest. I didn't mind the pie being thrown into my face, because it tasted good, anyway.

Patty's face looked as though pickles were hanging from it, after he had been hit by a marshmallow pie.

USED SPONGE

I took a whole marshmallow pie and threw it right into my own brother's face. He was on the other side in the pie fight. He socked me with two or three pies right in the face. At the end we went down to the river and it took us a long time to wash the mess off.

I used a canoe sponge to wash off the blueberry and marshmallow pie.

I had never been a movie actor before and I was quite anxious to try it. It felt very good to be a movie actor with all those people around there watching me. I was not afraid at all because Director Kirby was very kind and gentle to us. He told me to do things and was very clear about it. When I did well he patted me on the shoulder and said: "That's fine; keep it up, Freckles."

I had lots of fun while acting. One of the most unpleasant things about it was when some of "Our Gang" tied my hands while we were waiting to act in one of the scenes. Then they knocked me down on the ground and held me there while "Jean Darling" kissed me.

I didn't like that because I didn't want my friend, Charlotte of Roxbury, to think I would go around kissing girls. I am no sheik and I don't want Charlotte to think I am. I was kissed against my will and I didn't like it.

HIT ON HEAD

There was another thing I didn't like that happened. "Wheezer" whanged me over the head with a bottle of ketchup and nearly knocked me for a goal. That wasn't a part of the picture. I had a lump on my head for a whole day.

When we were doing the picture I was supposed to be rough with Farina, and she started to cry because she thought I meant what I said. I felt sorry. If I knew she was going to cry, I wouldn't have done it so roughly. She's a good kid and we all liked her.

I liked Wheezer because he's a funny little kid and was always jumping around and doing a lot of mischief.

Mary Ann looks exactly like the real Mary Ann of "Our Gang," that I've last seen in the picture at the Orpheum Theater. If both were the same height, you couldn't tell the difference between them.

I think the whole "gang" was a good gang and I hope some one of them wins first prize and goes to Hollywood, if I don't.

I like being a movie actor better than anything else I ever did, because I like to do stunts in front of a lot of people.

I can hardly wait until the week of September 3, when the picture will be shown at the Orpheum—I want to go there and see it.

Why Your Coke Is Baked Like Bread

Ash, Smoke, Soot and Gases Removed Before You Get It

Some people wonder why the coke they use is so much cleaner and better than other fuels, yet gives a hotter, longer-lasting fire.

This is because coke is almost pure carbon.

Out in Everett, in the big coke plant of the New England Coal and Coke Company, are batteries of immense ovens, not unlike those in large bakeries. Here, the elements that make smoke, soot and ashes are literally baked out of coal until only carbon remains.

Carbon is the combustible part of coal, its hardest part. And while coke is more porous and lighter more readily than anthracite, it lasts much longer.

The chemical by-products of the baking are sold to industries. So, the man who uses coke really profits from the waste parts of coal—receiving a more efficient fuel at a lower price.

If interested to know more about this superior fuel for household uses, visit, write or telephone the new Boston offices of the New England Coal and Coke Company now in the Park Square District at 250 Stuart Street.

Opens Haldane Grave to Meet the Dead

Gleneagles, Scotland, Aug. 24 (A P)—The grave of Viscount Haldane, British statesman, who was buried here yesterday, was found today with indications that an attempt had been made to pry open the coffin.

Lying asleep beside the opened grave was a man who stopped the funeral procession of the former cabinet minister in High st. yesterday at Auchterarder.

Awakened by a cemetery attendant, the man was quoted as declaring that he had spiritualistic leanings and had an appointment with the viscount. When he stopped the procession yesterday he asserted that Haldane was not dead and he repeated this in the graveyard today.

The police said that the man had admitted opening the grave with tools left by a gravedigger.

"OFFICER 666" AUTHOR DIES

New York, Aug. 24 (INS)—Augustin MacHugh, veteran Broadway playwright, died today in Bellevue hospital from pneumonia. He was stricken last Tuesday in his home.

He was the author of "Officer 666," a tremendous Broadway hit of fifteen years ago; "The Meanest Man in Town" and many other plays. Four years ago he married Helen Counihan, 21, an artist's model.

STULTZ LOST IN FOG ON FLIGHT

New Haven, Ct., Aug. 24 (AP)—Lost in the fog which shrouded most of New England, Wilmer Stultz, pilot for Miss Amelia Earhart on her transatlantic flight, brought his Sikorsky plane down at Morris Cove, slightly damaging one pontoon.

Stultz, with Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney, Jr., was attempting to fly from Boston to Saratoga, but got lost over the Berkshires.

After landing Stultz telephoned to Curtiss field to arrange for repairs to the pontoon and a short time later took off again, this time for Long Island.

Morris Cove is on the east shore of this city facing Long Island.

INNES TO PRESIDE AT OPENING OF QUARTERS

Charles H. Innes will preside at formal dedication exercises in the opening of new quarters of the Republican League of Ward 4 at 117 Huntington ave., Wednesday night. For 24 years the league's headquarters were located in another part of the district.

Among the speakers will be National Committeeman Louis K. Liggett, National Committeewoman Mrs. Nathaniel Thayer, candidates for Republican nomination for United States Senator and for Lieutenant-Governor, and the two representatives in the Legislature.

GREETER GROUPS VOTE NOT TO UNITE

More than 50 members of Boston Chapter 40, Greeters of America, met at the Hotel Arlington to consider the suggestion of Chapter 24 Greeters of New England, to consolidate the two chapters. After much discussion the Boston group decided not to consolidate and will continue as a separate unit.

KELLOGG GOING TO IRELAND FROM PARIS

Paris, Aug. 24 (INS)—Frank B. Kellogg, American Secretary of State, who came to France to sign the treaty outlawing war in Paris next Monday, arrived here today from Havre at 10 o'clock. He was met at the station by representatives of the French Government and by Myron T. Herrick, United States ambassador.

The Secretary had luncheon with the ambassador and made an informal call upon the French Foreign Secretary, Aristide Briand, later left and returned the visit.

During the trip to this city from Havre, where he arrived on the Ile de France, Kellogg received representatives of the press and spoke of his plans for visiting Ireland.

"I have been in Europe many times and have visited the American ambassador to England, but I never visited Ireland," said Mr. Kellogg. "That is a visit I am looking forward to with a great deal of pleasure."

Asked if he would talk to Premier Poincare and the German Foreign Secretary, Gustav Stresemann upon international topics, Mr. Kellogg replied:

"I will doubtless have informal conversations with both of them, but I can assure you that there will be nothing official. My visit is only to sign the anti-war treaty. I do not even intend to make any speeches while in Europe."

Multilateral Feminism in Demand for World Equality

Paris, Aug. 24 (AP)—Multilateral feminism is going to crash the gates of the multilateral anti-war pact meeting if a group of veterans of a half a dozen suffrage arenas and the world's most aggressive equal rights fighters succeed in the campaign they are planning.

Lady Rhondda, Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont and Doris Stevens are organizing a plan by which the committee on international action, an offshoot of the National Women's Party of the United States, hopes to get a few minutes alone with the Kellogg pact plenipotentiaries to present "a proposed treaty of equal rights for men and women."

"We are going to use the same tactics which were so successful at Havana," said Miss Stevens, chairman of the Committee on International action.

The most important clause of the proposed treaty reads: "The contracting states agree that upon ratification of this treaty, men and women will have equal rights throughout the territory subjected to the respective jurisdictions."

Chief of Japanese "Living Gods" Is Under Arrest

Tokyo, Aug. 24 (AP)—Aijiro Omieni, "head of the Family of Living Gods and Goddesses," was under arrest today with 178 of his followers. The prisoners were committee for trial on charges of disrespect toward the Japanese ruling house.

The "Family of Living Gods and Goddesses" is a fanatical religious sect which claims descent from the national gods of Japan, and consequently asserts the right to rule the country.

The arrests were made last April, but owing to the nature of the alleged offense, the police banned earlier publication of the news. A total of 203 persons were arrested, but only 159 were committed for trial.

CANDIDATE OF NATIONAL PARTY QUITS CAMPAIGN

Indianapolis, Aug. 24 — John Zahnd of Indianapolis, National party candidate for President of the United States, announced that the party's national ticket would be withdrawn.

Zahnd was nominated by a referendum vote of the members of the National party last January.

LYNN BURGLARS GET LITTLE IN FIVE BREAKS

Burglar alarms buzzed in Lynn early today, keeping police reserves on the hop as five places were broken into.

When the alarm rang in from the Besse Rolfe clothing store on Market st., 15 policemen rushed there to find that the thieves had fled. While police were there an alarm sounded from the Standard Clothiers' store on the same street, but this was found to have been caused by a broken wire, probably gnawed by a rat.

Meanwhile from the Rolfe store the thieves had escaped by way of the roof and through the Conservatory of Music next door, taking violin parts with them as they passed through to the street.

Later two safes were found smashed open in the Haines-Cobrooks ice cream place on Western ave., but the intruders were evidently frightened away before taking anything. At the Pure Food shop on Union st. they got several dollars from the cash drawer and at Jacob Cohen's junk yard on Vine st., rags were stolen, probably to deaden the sound while safes were being broken open.

GOODYEAR "ALL-WEATHER" TREAD

GOODYEAR PATHFINDER TREAD

Come, see how SUPERTWIST gives Goodyear mileage

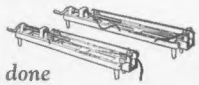
As Goodyear dealers it will be a pleasure for any of us to demonstrate for you the SUPER-TWIST principle by which Goodyear Tires deliver such unusual mileage and comfort.

For, after all, mileage is the big factor in tire buying and selling. If you do not get it, you're disappointed. If you get extra mileage that's a good investment for you—and for us.

And no tire can give extra mileage—or even average mileage—if its inner "muscle" construction becomes tired and breaks down prematurely.

A tire flexes over 25,000 times an hour at a forty mile speed. So if the inner carcass or body is not built to withstand that terrific strain the tire collapses before it has delivered its rightful mileage.

We're glad to sell Goodyear Tires because they give you full mileage—plus. They're the only tires built of those strong, rubbery, sinewy cords which stretch farther than any other cord, and "flex" right back again—keeping the tire continually in shape—and service.



See how it's done

COME, SEE THE MILES STRETCH

Any one of us will gladly demonstrate the SUPERTWIST principle which stretches the miles and the value of your tire dollar. This machine makes it clear. Come see it—and get its money-saving message.

12-MILE LIMIT GAMBLE ENDS

San Pedro, Cal., Aug. 24 (AP)—Stripped of its gaiety and gamblers, the floating casino Johanna Smith rode at anchor here today, its games of chance ended and its purported owner in jail, as because an ancient maritime law had been dusted off to give federal authorities seizure rights on the high seas.

The ship was captured by the government yesterday, two months after his owner, Albert Howard, had set up gambling operations on it 12 miles off the coast, and defied every effort of Los Angeles and Orange County police to stop his business.

Before he surrendered, it was necessary to resort to a radio call to a United States coast guard cutter to force his hand, after which the government got Howard, the ship, the crew of 20 and $11,000.

MRS. HENRY G. DANFORTH,

ROCHESTER, NEW YORK.

GUIDING PUBLIC THOUGHT

THIS is part of the title page of a book written by Edward Hungerford, containing propaganda for electric light and power companies, published under auspices of the Board of Education of Rochester, N. Y., and introduced as a text book into the Rochester schools.

By M. L. RAMSEY,
Universal Service.

Washington, Aug. 24—Power company co-operation with the General Federation of Women's Clubs was declared by propagandists "of tremendous importance" in gaining public favor for the utilities, Federal Trade Commission records today.

These records, gathered from the files of various propaganda bureaus, reflected the propagandists' attitude toward the Federation's national survey of homes, for which the National Electric Light Association has paid it $70,000 in the last three years.

A "pressing and confidential" letter was sent to bureau directors on May 16, 1925, by George F. Oxley, Light Association propagandist, informing them of the survey. It said:

"Under the auspices of the General Federation of Women's Clubs a movement has just been inaugurated that is of tremendous importance to the electric light and power industry, from the standpoint of public relations. It is vital to the interests of the public utilities that all member companies be immediately advised so that we may be ready to act in the matter."

Oxley pointed out that the federation was gathering, through thousands of questionnaires, information about the use of home labor-saving appliances, and added:

"They have come to the National Electric Light Association for help of the most far-reaching opportunities for the improvement of public relations, and the natural resultant commercial benefits, that has ever been offered to this industry."

Of the federation's ensuing campaign in Ohio for "adequately equipped homes," Fred J. Bollmeyer, propaganda director, wrote J. W. Sheridan, Missouri director, last February:

"All of the publicity work, as well as the organization of the campaign was handled by us. Naturally you will understand that this is confidential, inasmuch as we do not appear in it and have done the work upon the request of the federation."

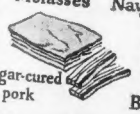
Here's what the lumber camp cooks of the Maine woods put into the bean-pot—layer on layer

Molasses

Navy Beans



Sugar-cured pork

Brown Sugar

Such flavor-rich ingredients! All-night cooking blends them, and their juices seep through to flavor every tender bean in the pot.

Here's the way they bake them in the outdoor oven called the "bean hole"

The big-bellied iron bean pot is buried in a bed of glowing embers where it cooks for 12 hours. This gives the finest baked-bean flavor known!

Here's the first real reproduction of these wonderful Maine woods beans—ready for your table

And now you can have this very "baked-out-of-doors" flavor in Bean Hole Beans! Enjoy them today. Order a can or two from your grocer. Two sizes—medium and large.

Intimate Life of the Prince of Wales

BOSTON EVENING AMERICAN

SECOND SECTION

BOSTON, FRIDAY, AUGUST 24, 1928

Fiction-Like, Fact Story of a "Regular Fellow"

Approved

THE manuscript of the accompanying biography of the Prince of Wales was submitted by the authors of the personal staff of His Royal Highness at St. James' Palace in London, and, was officially approved after complete reading, for publication.

CHAPTER 5

SINCE he had been at Oxford the Prince had sought companionship with others on a more or less equal footing, but now there was more respect and deference shown to him than had been necessary when he was Cadet Edward of Wales, and this "difference" robbed the hitherto carefree life at college of much of its charm. The Prince found it irksome to be left out of the fun merely on account of his titles, when the boy himself had so little altered his outlook.

But not for long did the Prince dwell upon such problems. School life was all absorbing, and he found time for giving to his studies with his wonted zest. Except for a short interval, when he left school for a few days and joined his parents at Balmoral to witness spectacular demonstrations by a part of the fleet, the Prince's studies were uninterrupted until holidays began in early August.

A few days were spent at Marlborough House, prior to a short vacation at Balmoral, at Balmoral Castle Where there he was a frequent visitor at Delhi Mar Lodge, were lived the Princess Royal Prince Albert and Princess Mary were also at home and the young two spent the days in London following divers pursuits. On one occasion Lloyd and his sister visited the Japan-British Exhibition.

Meanwhile, too people of Wales were not wholly satisfied with the formal manner in which the prince had been invested with his title of the principality. Not since the birth

WASHBURN TAKES RAP AT HULL

The sincerity of the motive which impelled Speaker John C. Hull, candidate for the Republican nomination for Lieutenant Governor, to call for the withdrawal of Robert M. Leach, one of his opponents, in the interest of a balanced State ticket, was questioned today by Robert M. Washburn, president of the Roosevelt Club.

"You ask Hull to withdraw because a man from Taunton, as does Mr. Warner, and is for national prohibition," declared Washburn in an open letter. "You as two men from the same county and not opposed on the State ticket, as they may but there should be a wider geographical distribution of state offices."

Washburn then made the point that if Hull is among the workers should support the candidacy of John W. Haggis of Greenfield, for State treasurer, in view of the fact that the state west of Worcester County has no candidate under the primary law, as most of the voters live in the east.

If you do this not even your critics will question your sincerity," Washburn conceded.

DEB TAKES TO PARACHUTE

Nancy Glave, New York society debutante, Junior Leaguer, and daughter of George York, will make her debut next in a parachute. She plans to leap from an airplane in the air maneuvers in the Long Island pageant at the Mineola fair grounds. She's doing it for charity, she said.

"I BELIEVE the management of the Boston Garden is making a wise move in cutting a few of the ringside prices. I returned Mr. Boston from New York Richard figures he is giving the crowds at Madison Square Garden a show for Mr. Mooney and Heeney in at a $7 top. Shows with a $5 top are unheard of at the New York Garden. The ordinary good attractions call for $3.0, while outstanding shows like Sharkey and Heeney, Sharkey and Risko, and Delaney and Heeney were put in at $10 for ringside seats.

"The local fans know the fight fans of Boston well enough to realize they will not to crate any such prices. In New York the wiseacres and the racketeers and sharpers are the ones who come through with the big jack for the ringside seats.

Many Factors Make Accurate Putting

By BOBBY JONES
National Amateur Champion

To hole a putt of any considerable length it is necessary to co-ordinate a number of factors. The cup itself is a very small target at which to shoot from a distance of 20 or 30 feet, and many putts correctly struck do not find the bottom of the hole.

To find the exact line to the hole and to adjust the speed of the ball so that it will take every curve and roll with precision and exactitude are things which human beings cannot do quite with perfect regularity. Only a small percentage of really good putts, even without the 10 foot pitfalls, go in the hole.

[illegible] putts about it make us doubly anxious to learn to strike every [illegible]

There is much said about keeping the head still, and the body, and taking the putter back with the left hand, and striking with the right, all of which is very sound advice [illegible]

I HAVE noted, however, a very [illegible] the player pushes the putter [illegible] and forth without taking up any of the motion with the arms. [illegible] and with consequent loss of smoothness if it has no other.

A putt should always be hit [illegible]

with the arms, the club head must come up very sharply from the low point of the arc, and if this low point is reached before or at impact the [illegible]

BELIEVE every teacher will advise [illegible] the head should [illegible] and I certainly do. I think it stops [illegible] I cannot tell how [illegible] the shoulders below [illegible] I believe to move [illegible]

Retired Undefeated World's Heavyweight Champion

CHAPTER III

EVERY American boy is imbued with the desire for success. The books he reads carry the message to him in terms he grasps easily. He wants to emulate the lives of the heroes he worships.

It was largely reading matter from the nearby library in Greenwich Village that inflamed my imagination and desire to seek success in other fields than the limited sphere I found myself in prior to the war.

At night upon returning from the shipping office I divided my time between the gymnasium and the library. To each of these institutions I owe a great part of the success that has come to me.

When I retired from the boxing ring this summer as undefeated heavyweight champion of the world I still was following the same schedule I adhered to as a youngster. They were my own private college courses—physical development, good health, mental stimulation and progress.

A fearful shadow had at last fallen across Sir Harry's path. . . .

ONCE-OVERS

By J. J. MUNDY

AS a man of your house you may consider that it is well enough furnished.

Perhaps you object strenuously when your wife suggests buying new furniture for some part of the home.

If that you have is still substantial, and while it may be too modern to be antique, and too old to be in style, you think it ought to do and your wife feels that substitutions should be made.

You think it extravagant to discard what you have and make outlay for new things necessary.

Perhaps your wife visits the homes of others oftener than you.

Naturally she wants her home and yours to compare favorably with the homes of your friends.

She wants her friends to know that she has an attractive home and relatively nice according to your salary or your income.

And she has a right to expect to have new things if you can provide them.

A WIFE'S MEDITATIONS

By HELEN HOWLAND

A MAN'S heart is always awakened by love—but after marriage it is apt to roll over and go right back to sleep again.

A man can always make a fool of a woman who loves him—provided she doesn't beat him to it by making a fool of herself.

It is a bitter shock to a man's vanity to discover that the girl to whom he has been making love just for a pastime has just been letting him do it merely as a little diversion between two serious love affairs.

* * *

A man usually figures that if he is only half an hour late, his wife is sure to be peeved; but if he can stay out long enough for her to visualize him lying on a stretcher, she will fall on his neck with relief instead of with reproach.

* * *

Alas, man is most attractive to women when he is all COVERED up! When he is all groomed and pink and fresh from the hands of the barber, the tailor and the haberdasher, and camouflaged in blue serge and shining linen.

* * *

One of man's sweetest forms of philanthropy consists in making love to all the women he is sure won't take him seriously, and thus helping them to hold onto their vanity without letting go of his freedom.

* * *

The thing that wears a man all out around the home is having to spend half his time explaining why he didn't do the things he ought to have been doing the other half.

* * *

Nothing makes a man so desperately sure that he WANTS a woman as her effort to convince him that he doesn't.

* * *

The only thing that makes a woman more nervous than having a man off somewhere else when he ought to be at home is to have him hanging around the house when he ought to be somewhere else.

* * *

The richest lovers often make the poorest husbands; probably because the man who has the money to change his automobile every year usually has the time and the impulse to change his heart just as often.

MASS. OYSTERS HAVE NAMES CHANGED

By FRANK H. MELDON
Financial Editor

A few more days and the return of the R to oysters will find our epicures all over New England to offer the annual free season reminder that "Oysters in August" is a proper statement as figures might seem that retail sales of the oyster exceed by far even those in the "Sacred Cod."

Recently a popular economist set forth the view of a certain group of people. He showed the worker progressive shopping classes for steak for the month. Then the low priced "Little Necks" and "Blue Points" that is "Cherrystones" and "Cotuits." Shrug nothing but moaning "Lynn haven and Cape Cod."

The name "Cape Cod" possesses, of course, a special appeal at this season of the year. It is one of the others the problem of whether or not Cape Cod canal has helped or hurt Cape Cod's famous bivalve, or whether it merely takes it more to the same place and time. But Mass. shellfish being widely sold in and eaten, a discussion of the Loomen clature is interesting. Criticising the custom as one might a Vanderbilt or Rembrandt only some different point. Director William G. Saltonstall of the Fisheries and Game section of Boston Hill tells me: "As far as my section is concerned, and general knowledge of the game I should say that the name used is the one for the job. Of course, I assume his main point is to show that in the event a certain locality has developed a special name may be retained even if in some isolated oyster bed.

"As far as the several steps in Massachusetts' oyster industry are concerned, has pretty accurately stated the case. However, there is a slight error in connection with the first case of time certain trade names are given to certain commodities. As nearly as my memory will state the facts, for example, the second step in the town of the period in the early part of the century, 'Cotuits' and 'Blue Points.' The 'Little Neck' has ever known in the small clams, but the Cotuits and Blue Points originally referred to a small oyster of excellent quality from Cotuit, Massachusetts. The same thing is true of certain of our Cape oysters which were originally known as 'Wellfleets.'"

"As time went on, all small oysters coming to market as Blue Points' and hence today it is a trade name to indicate the size of oysters and not their locality as it was at originally. The same is true when you get down to the last pitiful when our local oysters arrived at his pinnacle and is intrusted with the opening of 'Wellfleets' and 'Cape Cods.' There was a time when 'Lynnhaven' oysters were in the small clams, but today it simply means a very large oyster. The same is true of the 'Little Neck' clam, although this is used very little. In our State small oysters are indicated as 'Blue Points' and large oysters as 'Cotuits' without any reference as to where they come from."

Chairman Albert H. Wiggin of the Chase National Bank in New York, former banker and financier, has organized a second largest banking institution. The Chase has a new 28-story home on Nassau st., boasting the largest book vault in the country. The vault is 60 feet and 90 feet long. It is guarded by massive steel doors, two of which weigh 45 tons each. The steel doors open into two floors, a enclosed inside the vault. An intricate network of girders and floors embedded in concrete gives added protection to the vault itself. The low point of the building is approximately 70 feet underground in solid rock. Indicative of his modern treatment is addition of the old time office of the president. Bronze grill work and glass partitions. The flush line substituted walnut panels and leather cushions. There result in improved ease of transacting business.

An innovation is an incinerator for disposing combustible refuse near the top of the building. Millions of dollars of matured paper will be fed into the flames of the incinerator, which is unique not only in altitude but also in operation.

RADIO BRINGS 50,000 SONGS A NIGHT

By FRED TOYE, Radio Editor

THE MANUFACTURE of sound has become one of America's most flourishing industries. More than seven hundred radio stations are busy night after night pouring out a deluge of talk, music and more and there pictures. Up to date the pictures have been chiefly sound, and have not readily received themselves into discernable images. Enthusiasm, however, insist that they see things, and it is beyond dispute that radio vision is coming.

WIDE VARIETY

IN THE MATTER of mere volume of effort, the task of supplying musical entertainment demands considerable resources. Taking as a present example the United States stations which are issuing chain programs tonight, one can count up more than 50 musical numbers given in six programme during the hours from 5 to 11 this evening. That is not repetition, but the fact that repetition is not flagrantly objectionable speaks volumes for the musical knowledge and imagination of the program directors who have had the selection of the public's entertainment. It would be easy to figure that in an ordinary evening the 700 odd broadcasting stations of the United States send out on the air a total of more than 50,000 musical selections between the hours of 6 and 11.

JAZZ TO CLASSICS

GLANCING over tonight's programs find that the classic hour from Hour brings us the Cities Service March, Humoresquime, At Dawning, Medley of popular airs, Love's Dream, Chinese Picnic, On Wings of Song, Gems from Sometime, In a Clock Store, Last Rose of Summer, Serenade, The Swan, and Toora Loora Loora. Later on WEEI, the National Concert Co. reaents Angela Mia, My Bouquet of Memories, The Old Town Pump, My Heart Stood Still, Nocturne, The Mist of Love, Dizzy Fingers, Crazy Rhythm, The Glir Is You and Boy Is Me, Aileen, Moonlight Madonna and Smile.

SENTIMENTAL

THE KODAK HOUR offers through Columbia and WNAC, Rain or Shine, Kashmir Song, All Through the Night, Say So, The Broad Highway, A Sunny Disposish, Angela O Franancia, Mam'selle Nitouche de Cold, Cold Ground, Sweet Genevive, From the Land of the Sky Blue Water, Dance of the Armorer, I want to Be Happy, That's Why Memories Now, The following program by the United Concert Orchestra calls for Prelude, Pulfiliance, Little Indian, In the Good Light, Dance of the Carnival Flowers, The Load Is Heavy, Song of the Spirit, Call, Gal, Norwegian Bridal Procession, Cara Mia, Idillio, Prelude in G Minor,

OYSTER MAN ORDERED TO PAY $500 ALIMONY

New York, Aug. 24—Pearls, apparently, are not the only treasure to be found in oysters.

Court action revealed that George W. Ockendon, president of a company that operates a restaurant known as "Billy the Oyster Man's," receives a salary of $1000 a month, extra dividends, it was testified, equal or exceed the amount of the salary.

Ockendon was ordered to pay his wife $500 a month temporary alimony and $3500 counsel fees pending trial for separation.

THE BOSTON AMERICAN'S PLATFORM FOR BOSTON AND NEW ENGLAND

For BOSTON:
1—Clean streets.
2—Solution of traffic and parking problems.
3—Better pay for honest public service.
4—An airport SECOND TO NONE.
5—Erection of a MUNICIPAL AUDITORIUM to compare with any in the land, in order that Boston, properly supplied with first-class hotels, may be the premier convention city of the U. S. A.

For NEW ENGLAND:
1—Weld the six States into a unit through the activities of the New England Council, thus creating a community consciousness.
2—Promote intercourse with Central and South America, encouraging New Englanders to "turn to the sea" again.
3—Keeping everlastingly at the job of telling the rest of the country all about our unique advantages as Summer and Winter Playground of the Nation.
4—Foster the prosperity of our industries through (1) greater efficiency in production and (2) the use of modern methods in merchandising.
5—Promote in every way such natural resources as forests, water powers and fisheries.
6—Assist New England agriculture to better marketing methods.

Secretary Whiting

An Excellent Appointment

Mr. William F. Whiting of Holyoke, called by the President to take Mr. Hoover's place, will bring to the Department of Commerce the ripe experience of a successful manufacturer.

"W. F.," as they called him in the Paper City when he was active in local politics some years ago—it used to be said that "W. F." and "Mike" Bowler "ran" the town—would have made Mr. Coolidge a good Secretary of Agriculture. If not exactly a "dirt farmer," he is much more practical than the mere "agriculturist." His herd of Jerseys has few, if any, superiors. His White Leghorns are famous.

Here in Eastern Massachusetts it long has been a mystery to men on the outside of practical politics why those on the inside could not see the availability of the paper maker for the office of Governor. He probably could not be induced to enter such a scramble as the present contest for lieutenant-governor, but there are ways by which practical politics sidesteps these contests—when it has a reason—and William F. Whiting's fitness for the office would have been an excellent reason.

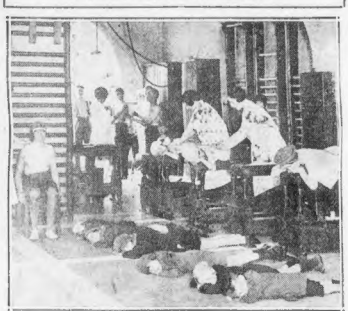
At 64, the relish of the new Secretary for politics as it is played may be no more keen than it has been and yet the "organization" may find reason to keep him "in mind." His appointment by President Coolidge is more than the tribute of one distinguished Amherst man to another; it is a high-grade nomination to an office which Herbert Hoover has made of superior importance.

Mr. Whiting will do more than make a good Secretary of Commerce, he will bring to meetings of the Cabinet a sense of humor which is the delight of his intimates.

Congratulations are due to the President and the country as well as to the new Secretary.

Music as a Cure

Especially Important for Children



CONVALESCING TO MUSIC

Disease is partly physical, partly A STATE OF MIND. Some believe that it is ONLY a state of mind. Some believe that it is purely physical. Both are mistaken.

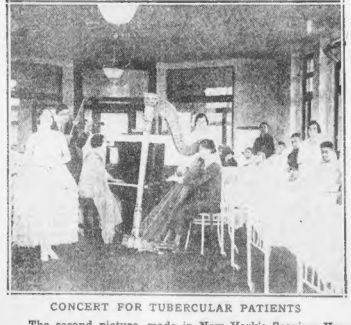
Man is a spirit in a physical body. The body affects the spirit, the spirit affects the body.

These pictures show the interiors of two hospitals in which music is used to help THE SPIRIT TO CURE THE BODY.

The upper picture shows the interior of Guy's Hospital in London. Nurses are giving children massages to music. In the rear, boys are going through rhythmic exercises, to the same music.

Music STIMULATES the mind, creates a happy psychological or spiritual condition.

And the cure is easier.



CONCERT FOR TUBERCULAR PATIENTS

The second picture, made in New York's Seaview Hospital for Tuberculosis, shows patients listening to a concert given in the ward. You read, "It has been found that soft, cheerful music has a marked effect on tubercular cases. Driving away the bogies of depression, homesickness and worry by musical vibrations, music greatly aids the doctors' efforts."

Music stimulates the mind in its THINKING, and stimulates men in AMBITIOUS effort, in WAR and in Peace.

It is in many instances more powerful than drugs or the surgeon's knife.

But he is in danger who fails to recognise the importance of "pure science," or to NEGLECT drugs or the surgeon when either is needed.

Driving the Grackle From Winchester -:-

TRADITION AND THE CHOICE OF PARTIES

By DR. FRANK CRANE

As near as we can get at the matter people go ahead dividing into two political parties for a similar reason to that for which women wore bustles.

Nowhere in the field of human endeavor is the momentum of tradition more apparent than in politics.

Surely such efficient minds as those of Elihu Root, General Grant, Herbert Hoover and Alfred E. Smith know more than to believe a political party means anything, at least that it means more than a machine to get certain persons elected.

After making platforms and speeches about the Republican or Democratic party they must retire to the privacy of their own closets and have a good laugh.

The main issues upon which this presidential campaign will be decided are "whispering issues."

Maybe they oughtn't to do this, maybe it is very naughty, but all that does not prevent them from doing it just the same.

When a man has blurted out some damaging fact in his testimony, the judge may rule that the jury should pay no attention to it. But they heard it, and cannot unhear it, and it has its effect, perhaps all the more for their being warned against it.

There recently was a meeting of political scientists representing 48 universities and colleges in America, held at Des Moines.

They claim that the present presidential campaign will signalize in American history the collapse of the two-party system.

Professor Munro of Harvard declared, "issues do not separate the two parties vertically. They break up each party horizontally in blocks, based on economic interests and social advantage and disadvantage."

These blocs, they say, will replace the two major parties which serve no other purpose than to provide the machinery for the election of the President every four years.

Perhaps these scientific gentlemen are talking through their hats. Common sense usually has a hard time of it when it is opposed by custom, and these scientists show a sort of childlike faith in reason and logic which is not in accordance with facts.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

HERE'S a typical domestic situation. You've seen it a hundred times—read its tragic finale in the divorce courts. It's becoming so common that it's raising Cain with American history. What's YOUR solution?

Ethel—26. Horace—33. Bright, capable young people with good ideals. Married five years. One baby. Sounds like the makings of a model home, doesn't it? But wait.

Like most modern girls, Ethel worked before she was married. She was the exceptionally efficient private secretary to a big corporation man. Learned how to tackle any job sanely, vigorously with the minimum of waste motion. Then she married Horace, a rising young doctor, and proceeded to tackle housework in a three-room modern apartment as she had tackled office work.

Housework had been a full-sized job for Ethel's mother and grandmother with their seven and eight-room homes, their linen closets, wash and store room, huge pantries and shelves of preserves. But men had taken the punch and the pride out of housekeeping for Ethel by commercializing its departments. Men made her bread, sewed and washed her clothes, did her canning.

There had been a kick to running the office. It had taken all of Ethel's gumption and wit. There was little kick, outside of a sentimental one, in running a house. It left her reserves untouched. It left her with an almost empty day and a quite empty imagination.

Then the baby came. Babies are a big job to young women with vague ideas, disorderly methods, undisciplined temperaments. But Ethel wasn't that kind of a young lady. She was a trained worker as more and more of our young women are coming to be. She ran that baby on a schedule just as she ran her home. There were the usual hectic interludes—teething, measles, whooping cough—but she kept them well in hand. She discovered ways of saving time and strength. She, and half a dozen other young mothers, clubbed together and hired a woman to look after their youngsters in the afternoons. Modern motherhood, under Ethel's cool brain, became as much of a snap as modern housekeeping.

With this result—by evening Ethel is as fresh and vivacious as she was at 9 a. m. All set to go and plenty of pep to go with. On the other hand, by evening Horace is a washout.

He has been driving at top speed all day. Do not gather from this that Horace is a martyr to domestic devotion. He often pictures himself as such, but actually Horace is quite as much wedded to his job as he is to Ethel—if not more so. He is constantly taking on new work in order to make a record for himself. Horace's idea of pure beauty is a nice, messy manuscript. He works to the limit of his strength every day, in office or hospital. By night he is just about as sociable as a hibernating woodchuck. And when Ethel suggests that they crash loose and do a little roistering about, Horace almost weeps with rage and indignation.

Doesn't she realize how he's been slaving all day? Doesn't she appreciate what it means to give her all this comfort? That's all the thanks a man gets! He can't sit down and have an hour's rest, etc., etc., etc.

All of which Ethel swallows with large gobs of salt. She's hep to business men.

So there you are. This woman gave up much fascinating freedom and a business career to marry a man because she loved him, because she desired his companionship above everything else on earth and wished to make a home for him. Judge for yourself what she's getting out of it.

What will be the result?

What's the cure?

YOU TELL 'EM!

WORDS OF THE WISE MEN

New York Day by Day

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Aug. 24—Thoughts while strolling: What's become of euchre parties? Mayor Walker's green coupe. Pests who say, "And how!" Harrison Fisher's gray spats. Roy Howard, a Gane, O., boy, who made good in the city. Drug store window sign: "Gin Fizz."

Find a restaurant with a heavy Jewish patronage and you find good food. Steve Hannagan, Gene Tunney's public relations counsel, Oscar of the Waldorf. Resembles a benign and roly-poly apple-cheeked curate. Those houses on the street with half moon driveways.

Val O'Farrell, a detective with a mystery novel name. Why do gardeners always look so surly? Eighteen-year-old Ingenette users. Maybe it's the liquor. Sam Kingston, Forty-second stree's Beau Brummel. One of those inns where Washington "stopped." Why do hemstitching shops locate upstairs in dingy buildings? Six giggling chorus girls in a roadster. Horse-faced men who wear Alpine hats several sizes too soon. Fluffy little dogs yapping from limousine windows.

The big gas tank on Riverside Drive. And tea time at the Claremont—once the home of Theodosia Burr. Grant's tomb and the inscription, "Let Us Have Peace." And the young couples who go there to spoon. The iron fence encircling the grave for "The Unknown Child."

The tree Li Hung Chang planted as a tribute to General Grant. Two churches now going up on the Drive. Dreamers on stone wall benches—gazing all day at the Hudson. Sailor boys on the mash. Bishop Potter's home gone. The Soldier and Sailor Monument.

The mammoth apartment house whose upper floors are occupied by W. R. Hearst. Charles M. Schwab's lawn always looks as though it had just been to the barber. Those retired grumpy army officers with Filipino servants and the goat. The fine old West 72nd st. residences are now small shops.

BROOKLYN may be, as the jokesters say, "at the wrong end of the bridge," but it has more personality and genuine charm than the borough of Manhattan. It is the last stand of the old American home in Greater New York, having lawns upon which children may play and comfortable porch hammocks for tired mothers.

The beauty of Central Park is overshadowed by that of Brooklyn's Prospect Park. After leaving cramped Manhattan one is impressed by the breathing space across the bridge. There is a common, for instance, where ten baseball games may be played simultaneously.

There is scarcely a finer roadway in American than Ocean parkway, the route to Coney Island. It seems as wide as the famous Champs Elysees and is lined with six rows of trees. There is a promenade. Also a bridle path and three different roadways for vehicular traffic.

In the evening husbands are out in their shirt sleeves sprinkling lawns. Mothers in organdie dresses are rocking on porches. Children, freshly bathed and scrubbed, are riding or driving Shetland ponies. Young men and girls are strolling along shaded streets.

BEYOND Brooklyn is Coney Island and beyond Coney is Sea Gate—long reputed, but not actually, the most exclusive residential section in America. A policeman is on guard at the single entrance to the area and a stranger must give his name and wait for telephone permission from a resident before entering the sacred portals.

THE most neighborly block in midtown Manhattan is on West 47th st., between Broadway and Sixth ave. Here men and women are always standing out front or sitting on the stoops of the many dress-fit hotels. Everybody seems acquainted.

"KNOWING you are horse-faced and Scotch," writes someone on the back of a menu, "I presume it was you who licked the grapefruit juice off your spectacles at breakfast in the Biltmore this morning."

That would be me only I don't wear spectacles. And the place would be Childs'.

A Glance of Sunlight

The Farmer Would Like Such a Gleam

There is a little gleam of sunshine for our deserving railroads. The Interstate Commerce Commission says the Government must pay them $15,000,000 a year more for carrying mails, and must refund to the railroads $45,000,000 more for having paid the roads too little since 1925.

Railroads that carry the mail must know how Moses and his friends felt when the manna began to fall and they ate the first mouthful of it. Sixty million dollars' worth of manna is not a thing to scorn.

The farmer as he reads about that will probably wish that his farm were a railroad, or at least that the farmers' organizations knew how to act like railroads, and get money as railroads do.

Last Dying Words

Who Will Send a Message After Death?

William M. Jones, fifty years old, bond salesman out of work, decided to leave a world that wouldn't support him and wrote down his sensations as he died by inhaling gas.

He said, among other things, "If humans had the sterling qualities of dogs in their faithfulness and friendship, this would be a fine world to live in."

It is the selfishness of human beings, however, that pushes them ahead. Selfishness is the corner-stone of progress.

Many have written their dying sensations. What the world wants is a few lines of genuine writing sent back from the other side of death.

Fifty words would be enough to tell the world fifty millions times more than it knows now.
